

Susana Quintero

Corporate Coordinator – California Cryobank

Susana Quintero is a Corporate Coordinator at California Cryobank; the largest specimen provider in the U.S. She is responsible for program oversight, donor management and long-range planning for the Egg Donor Department. Ms. Quintero graduated from Georgetown University with a degree in Linguistics and minor in Cognitive Science.

After graduation, she worked as an English teacher in New Delhi, India organizing courses in business communication. She returned to Washington D.C. to work in the non-profit sector, helping guide families through the domestic and international adoptive process. Prior to her role at California Cryobank, she worked at Georgetown University Hospital and in the Genetics Department at Children's National Medical Center.